As Birmingham, James James, 33, described as of no occupation, was charged on a warrant with forging a letter to obtain a curacy in the name of John Daniel James, of Llwynyni, Giamorganahire.—Rev. Gordon Llewellyn, vicar of St. Mary's, Stepney, advertised for curate, and, in reply, received an application curate, and, in reply, received an application accused, who represented he was Rev. John Daniel James, of Llwynypi, and B.A. and M.A. of Cambridge. He professed that he had had nine years' ministerial experience, was a fluent preacher, and accustomed to the sole conduct of divine service. Owing to the letters being somewhat illiterate and urgrammatical, Mr. Llewellyn communicated with the Bishop of Llandaff, in whose diocesse he pretended he had officiated as a priest. Inquiries were made by the Birmingham police, and prisoner's representations were found to be fictitious. He was for a time a theological student at Queen's College, Birmingham.—Counsel for prisoner denied any intention to defraud, asying prisoner's object was to gratify a foolish vanity, and make himself appear more important in the eyes of the young lady to whom he was paying his addresses.—The attended on a warrant carry to Admirable the first that a could not decide.

Concerning Sir M. Campbell.

If Sir Heary Campbell-Banserman had rejoiced in a longer nose the vote on Supply might have been reversed and Sir William Harcourt have bottled up his corrowful leave-taking for some evening next year. "I have not a very long nose," Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman is said to have remarked to a friend, "but I was not going to have it pulled by the Opposition." Blessed with an ordinary nose, Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman would not have got that organ on his mind. Abnormal features are apt to worry the most common-sense people. A short nose is considered weak in a man, it is often presty and taking in a woman. Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman has a short nose. If he had had a long one with a broad back to it then, according to the imperfect science of physiognomy, he would have scoffed at such a mere pretence of pulling it as that which brought about the downfall of the Rosebery Government. According to Lavater, the nose is "the foundation and antiment of the brain." Compare M. Gladstone's nose with Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman's and you will understand why in his situation Mr. Gladstone would never have permitted the vote about ammunition to have prevented him from going on with the work he had set himself to do, even at the sacrifice of his pride. It is important to have a good nose, abapely nose; one great man in history had a small nose, but he was only an orator.

On Monday the G. W. R. Co. inaugurated a new fast route between Ilfracombe and Paddington by running an express train leaving Ilfracombe at 11.17 via Bath and Devizes, and thence over the Berks and Hants line to Newbury, calling there at 5.2, Reading at 5.30, and reaching Paddington at 6.15, thus accomplishing the journey of 53 miles from Newbury to Paddington in an hour and a quarter. The train was drawn by one of the newest equal to that which she permits her children, native or adopted, the freedom to live how you will and to die how you may. It is the best place in the world to starve in as it is the best place to be rich in; it is the most solitary of cities and the most crowded. Nothing makes more than a ripple on the results of the world, and the results of the world, and the results of the world, and event even more discussed in the streets of Berlin, Paris, and Constantinople than in the busy haunts of loaden. There are now three male impersonate to the streets of Berlin, Paris, and Constantinople than in the busy haunts of loaden.

There are now three male impersonate that they neither act like women nor look like women. It would be fairer to say that they never from first to last quit the confidence of their audiences. "You know we are men, and that it is only our fun is their appeal at the outset. The audience.

fairer to say that they never from first to last quit the confidence of their audiences. "You know we are men and that it is only you fun "is their appeal at the outset." The audience winks its green to have the compact and all goes reell; but Mr. Penley, of London, and Mr. Neil Burress, of New York, both play eccentric females to the life. It has been left to Mr. Fred Keer to masquerade as a woman, without any attempt at disguise. "Miss Brown is never once any more than a very palpable man in petitocats, and but for a thoughtless line here and there Mr. Buchanan's farcical comedy is entirely without offence, highly diverting, and may rival the success of "Charley's Aunt' in England and "The County Feir" in America. A propos of these impersonations a good story is told of a Chief Superintendent of Folice in Chicago. "There is every reason to believe that she is a woman in man's attire," said the detective reporting upon a supposed swindler of the opposite sex whom he was shadowing. "Looks like a woman?" Yes, and walks like one," said the detective." "Small?" asked the chief. "Yes, both as to hands and feet and figure," was the reply. "It ought to be easy to make her declare herself," and the chief. "Have you seen her in a store with a sale on?" Yes, and she passed the bargain counters without even a glance at them." May have been trying to avoid suspicion; does she take much note of the gowns of ladies on the street?" Not that we have noticed. "Seen her boy any thing?" "Yes, said the detective, "and I must admit that twice she might be doing that for effect." "Does she cross the street without two series any tendency to hold up her toward." She have been trying to store without even a glance at them." She have been trying to avoid suspicion; does she take much note of the gowns of ladies on the street?" Not that we have noticed. In answer to the four letters I have requesting a recipe for boot blacking I must advise my correspondents that amateur blacking is seldom as good as what you buy of the best makers. It is one of those things that never turns out satisfactory when made in small quantities. However, here is something within the reach of home manufacture. Of animal charcoal take five ounces, treached four ounces, sweet oil three-quarters of an ounce. Bub these well together in a mortar until you get them perfectly amooth and the oil thoroughly incorporated, then stir irradually a quarter of a pint of vinegar and a quarter of a pint of beer, working and a tirring to secure amalgamation of the whole for a considerable time. Unless you take plenty of time over it it will be worthless.

CAPTURE OF BURGLARS.

A Paris correspondent says: An itinerant can go of thievee was captured the other day. They had long been known to the police, and had graphic nick-names. Thus one, Galineau, was "The Tide-waiter," and another, Carel, was "The Bos." he being a maky, darkshined fellow. They had all their domiciles at Believille, but preferred making their har vests in provincial towns where fetts were going on. They tracked M. Felix Faure in his different provincial towns, and it appears made fine haule in his last one through central France. When provincial folks were out, looking at the kindly President, the thieves from Belleville were robbing their houses. They had a narrow escape in a baker's shop which they entered at night. The kneading man came in while they were there, sitting on the counter after emptying the till. He took them for his employer and a party of friends, as it was in the twilight, and begred their pardon for disturbing them. They went to Kiel, but their trip there brought no profit. They were captured at the Eastern Eallway terminas. Falss keys, jemmes, cold chinels, and revolvers were found in their travelling bags, and more than $600 worth of plate and jong, and kept in a leather case. He wept when he saw it seized. Some members of the gang confessed that their share came to £1,600 in six months.

SHAHZADAH'S VISIT TO THE QUEEN.

The Shahzadah paid a State visit to Windsor Castle on Tuesday, and the Queen honoured him with a farewell reception. Her Majesty received Nasrullah Khan in the presence of soveral members of the royal family and the great officers of State. The Shahzadah presented the valuable gifts which the Ameer of Afghanistan had cont for her Majesty's acceptance. They consisted of a magnificent gold casket, embellished with precious stones and pillares and plaques of lapis lazuli, surmounted with stars and crescents of diamonds, so arranged that they may be detached and worn as personal ornaments, forty shawls of exquisite native workmanship, 800 black astrachan skins, and four enormous lumps of lapis lazuli in the rough, and after bidding farewell to her Majesty and the royal family, visited the Prince Concort's mausoleum at Frogmore. Nasrullah Khan then drove to Eton College and saw a cricket

H EROISM IN A LONDON SEWER.
On Monday, a shocking accident occurred at the East Ham sewage pumping station, by which five men lost their lives. Between six and seven o'clock a man named Arthur Rutter went down a well for the purpose of cleaning the screen in front of the sewer pipes leading to the pumping station. It was noticed that Rutter suddenly disappeared in the water, which was fit. deep at the time. Another man named Digby at once descended the well to rescue his companion, when he also disappeared in the secondary of t d. Champs 400.

morning. Shortly after To'clock the deceased man Digby came to him and said that he was going down to clear the screens. These screens were in what was known as the screening chamber in front of that part of the sewer leading to the pump well. Witness removed the slides from over the manhole, and Digby went down the iron ladder. When about half way down he said to witness. "I feel faint! I shall come up again." Witness told him to do so. Deceased started to come up arain, and when about two rungs from the top fell backward and disappeared. Witness called for help, but the other men who attempted a rescue were also overcome. A man named Warman eventually fastened a rope round one of the bodies and all were at found one of the bodies and all were at from one of the budies and all were at front brought to the surface. The manhole a cover with an aperture in the centre of about 5ft, by 2ft, and was always open. The cover had been off the manhole about a quarter of an hour before Digby went down.
